the relationship between sociology and social critique has haunted the discipline since its origins does critique divert sociology from its scientific project or is critique the ultimate goal of sociology without which the latter would be a futile activity disconnected from the concerns of ordinary people this issue has underpinned two divergent theoretical orientations that can be found in the discipline today the critical sociology that was developed in its most elaborate form by pierre bourdieu and the pragmatic sociology of critique developed by luc boltanski and his associates in critical sociology description in terms of power relations underscores the potency of mechanisms of oppression the way the oppressed passively endure them going so far in their alienation as to adopt the values that enslave them pragmatic sociology by contrast describes the actions of human beings who rebel but who are endowed with reason it stresses their ability in certain historical conditions to rise up against their domination and construct new interpretations of reality in the service of critical activity in this major new book boltanski develops a framework that makes it possible to reconcile these seemingly antagonistic approaches the one determinist and assigning the leading role to the enlightening science of the sociologist the other concerned to stick as closely as possible to what people say and do this labour of unification leads him to rework central notions such as practice institution critique and finally social reality all with the aim of contributing to a contemporary renewal of practices of emancipation assessing critical theory today josé maurício domingues emancipation and history focuses on the connection between history and emancipation centering on the trends that structure modernity and may lead us beyond it classical and contemporary sociology and social theory are mobilized to recover a robust theory capable of going beyond recurrent empirical and therefore weaker perspectives in emancipatory thought collective subjectivity and social creativity history and sociology analytical concepts and trend concepts social existential questions the role of equal freedom and of immanent critique secularization capitalism the modern state populism the family and the meaning of citizenship marx weber bhaskar habermas laclau sousa santos and negri are topics and authors that stand out in the book this special issue of the review of marketing research is devoted to a better understanding of the role of value in markets and marketing ethics in social research this book adopts a polemical stance it approaches the problems raised by the media by way of a set of arguments with the two dominant paradigms now current for thinking about the mediadspost modernism and information society theory it argues that the media are important because they raise a set of questions that have been central to social and political theory since the enlightenment in a series of probes into different sets of questions raised by the media the argument of the book focuses on the problem raised by what kant called the unsocial sociability of human kind under what conditions could autonomous free individuals live in viable social communities or to put it another way what are the related scope for and limits on human reason and emancipation in conducting this argument the book first argues for a necessarily historical perspective it then goes on to examine the implications for emancipation of seeing the media as cultural industries within the wider systems world of the capitalist market economy of seeing the media as technologies of the specialisation of intellectual production and of the separation and increasing social distance between the producers and consumers of symbols it then goes on to argue against current ethnographic trends in audience research and against the focus on everyday life for a reinstatement of interest in the statistical reality of audiences and effects and for a recognition through a return to the hegelian roots of commodity fetishism and the symbolic interactionist creation of identities that an active audience can be actively involved in its own domination the argument then turns to the problem of how we evaluate the symbolic forms that the media circulate and whether such evaluation can be anything more than a matter of personal taste it is argued that evaluation is in practice unavoidable and without some standards that are more than just subjective any criticism of the medias performance is impossible via an examination of the debate between the sociology of art and aesthetics it argues for the ethical foundations of aesthetic judgement and for the establishment of agreed standards of aesthetic judgement via the discourse ethic that underlies the argument of the entire book this foregrounding of the discourse ethic then leads on to a discussion of the media and politics here the argument is that arguments about the media and politics are at the heart of arguments about politics itself these arguments focus it is argued upon the shifting division between the public and the private here the book returns to the roots of public sphere theory in rousseaus arguments for the centrality of public spectacle and kants argument for the centrality of public reason in the practice of democratic politics with our american philosophy and religion series applewood reissues many primary sources published throughout american history through these books scholars interpreters students and non academics alike can see the thoughts and beliefs of americans who came before us includes sections books and race and race in periodicals this engaging two volume study urges a balance between theoretical and practical sociology applied sociologists adapt theoretical knowledge to actual human situations using it to formulate social policy investigate domestic and international social problems and create a pragmatic sociology of possibility these essays emphasize the close association of applied sociology with altruism identity formation race and ethnicity they evaluate the empirical truths of sociological theories and examine their relevance for contemporary research poverty demographic issues and social policies framed in the context of globalization each chapter of the study provides some workable guidelines for social scientists policymakers planners administrators and social activists the reader is also introduced to the sophisticated research methods employed in the social sciences excessive theorizing is avoided as modern crises precipitated by war terrorism anarchy and poverty are examined in practical and realistic terms in the fifth volume in the studies in american sociology series stanford m lyman offers commentaries on and critiques of postmodernism poststructuralism and deconstruction posing questions concerning theoretical and epistemological problems arising from what appears to be a nouvelle vague postmodernism poststructuralism and deconstructionism are interrelated aspects of the newest theoretical development in sociology and the social sciences this new wave of thought challenges virtually all paradigms currently in use in this his fifth volume in the studies in american sociology series stanford m lyman offers commentaries on and critiques of this new perspective posing questions concerning theoretical and epistemological problems arising from what appears to be a nouvelle vague among the basic themes and issues explored are the allegation that modernity has defaulted on the promise of the enlightenment the question of whether the rational basis for knowledge and action is still valid the controversy over the place of metanarratives and macrosociological outlooks and newer concerns over race gender sexual preferences the self and the other professor lyman provides empirically based and historically specific analyses of the relation of the race question to the problem of otherness and to the legal construction of racial identity in american court proceedings focusing on the issues of citizenship affecting european middle eastern and asian immigrants african americans and the special cases of the chinese and native americans he relates major public problems to the modern as well as the postmodern perspectives on justice the debate over assimilation and multiculturalism the dynamics of gender specific emotions as expressed in six decades of hollywood films and the postmodern approach to deviance are each examined he also offers proposals for a social science attuned to but critical of postmodernism and poststructuralism such a sociology might offer a perspective that treats the drama of social relations in the routine as well as the remarkable aspects of everyday life professor lyman provides not only a new understanding of postmodernism but also a program of how to proceed with respect to its challenges
